

We are profoundly saddened to learn of the demise of Judge Christopher Gregory Weeramantry (former Judge of the Supreme Court and former Judge and Vice President of the International Court of Justice). Upon his retirement from the judiciary, we deeply appreciated and valued his guidance and good counsel which he readily extended to us. When our firm celebrated its 135th year anniversary in 2014 he encouraged the Sri Lankan legal profession by extolling its 'long and illustrious history of service at the highest levels of skill and professional integrity', which we say was largely a reflection of the great stalwarts and personalities such as him who adorned our legal sphere from time to time. We are humbled, but inspired, when we recall the special tribute he paid us on that occasion where he said, referring to his association with us, that we 'always stood for excellence in legal service and quality advice'.

In this time of grief, we convey our deepest sympathies to Mrs. Rosemary Weeramantry and the other members of the Weeramantry family. May his soul Rest in Peace.

Message by Justice C G Weeramantry delivered at the 135th Anniversary of Julius & Creasy

The 135th Anniversary of Julius & Creasy is an occasion to be noted not only by this outstanding firm, but also by the entire legal profession of Sri Lanka.

It reminds us that our legal profession has a long and illustrious history of service at the highest levels of skill and professional integrity. Julius & Creasy have always stood for quality advice, rendered with a deep sense of responsibility, both to the client and to the legal system in general. This unbroken tradition of dedicated service is part of the history of the legal profession in Sri Lanka.

When I commenced legal practice 65 years ago, the name of Julius & Creasy always stood for excellence in legal service. We young advocates would consider it a privilege to be retained by Julius & Creasy and a retainer by them meant that all relevant documents, carefully scrutinized and methodically arranged, would be part of the brief we received.

Throughout my years of practice and during my years on the bench, this tradition continued. Even in my years spent overseas, I have heard from time to time of work done by Julius & Creasy in accordance with this high tradition.

May Julius & Creasy continue to render to their clients the highest ideals of learning and professional service which they have rendered for several generations. During the period the legal profession in Sri Lanka has progressed from small beginnings to become a profession counting its membership in thousands and extending its services from the domestic to the highest international level.

Illustrious, dedicated and honourable service is the essence of the professional work of lawyers throughout the world. This is typified by Julius & Creasy and may they long add lustre to our legal profession.
